BAILII seeks new Trustees

The British and Irish Legal Information Institute (BAILII) is seeking two new Trustees. BAILII runs a free online public service that provides access to a vast, constantly updated set of British and Irish legal materials. It is supported by many legal institutions and members of the legal profession, and millions of people use BAILII every year, including legal educators and students, practising lawyers, the advice sector, and members of the public. BAILII trustees are expected to actively support the organisation's activities, have a knowledge of charitable fundraising, attend the Sir Henry Brooke Lecture, and meet as a Board three times per year. BAILII's work supports access to justice, fairness, and inclusion, and it aims for diversity on its Board to contribute to good governance and decision-making.

Please send expressions of interest to Ann M. Hale at ann.hale@sas.ac.uk by midnight (BST) on Wednesday, 1 May 2024.
